

Dear Friends,

We are pleased to announce the 4th International Meeting on Laminopathies, taking place in Madrid, Spain on May 9-12, 2023. The meeting will be open to researchers, physicians and patients from around the world with the main goal of synergistically exchange knowledge and ideas to better understand laminopathies and help develop new therapies. As in previous editions celebrated in Marseille, Bologna, and London, the meeting will include sessions focused on molecular mechanisms, clinical aspects, disease-modeling, as well as therapeutic strategies.

Although we have a preliminary agenda with exciting speakers, we are expecting more contributions from research and clinical groups as well as patient associations. The meeting will be an extraordinary opportunity to share your work on laminopathies in front of the best possible audience.

Please visit the meeting's website (<https://www.laminopathy2023.com>) or send us an email (info@laminopathy2023.com) for more information. You can also check for updates by following our Twitter account (<https://twitter.com/IMLaminopathies>).

Registration and abstract submission will open in January 2023. We encourage you to save the date and consider contributing to the meeting.

Thank you for helping us spread the word about the 4th International Meeting on Laminopathies. We look forward to seeing you in Madrid.

Best regards,
